Planning and Conceptualization

Before any food is arranged, Warner spends considerable time conceptualizing the scene.

Food Preparation and Arrangement

Warner and his team prepare the ingredients meticulously—washing, cutting, and sometimes shaping items to fit specific roles in the landscape. The process often involves trial and error to achieve the perfect look. For instance, almonds might be piled to create peaks while leafy greens form dense forests. The arrangement can take hours to perfect, with constant adjustments for lighting and perspective.

Photography Techniques

Once the scene is ready, Warner uses advanced photographic techniques to capture the foodscape's depth and detail. Lighting is crucial, as it highlights textures and colors, making the food appear lifelike yet fantastical. Post-processing enhances the final image, ensuring the composition's vividness and clarity are preserved for print, such as in the 2012 wall calendar.
