Inspiration and Writing Process

Burroughs began working on Naked Lunch in the early 1950s, drawing inspiration from his own drug experiences, especially with heroin and other narcotics. If you feel your lunch breaks are being compromised or if the company policies are unclear, addressing this through a formal letter can help establish mutual understanding.

Understanding Lunch Break Policies and Rights

Before drafting your sample letter about lunch breaks, it's important to understand the legal and company-specific policies surrounding breaks. In many regions, labor laws specify minimum break times and conditions under which breaks must be provided. For example, some states require at least a 30-minute lunch break if an employee works more than 7½ consecutive hours.

Additionally, companies may have their own guidelines regarding when and how lunch breaks are scheduled or if breaks are paid or unpaid. Knowing these details allows you to tailor your letter with accurate references and avoid misunderstandings.

Common Lunch Break Issues Employees Face

Inconsistent break times or lack of scheduled breaks

Insufficient time allotted for meals

Here's an example to illustrate how you might write such a letter:

*Subject: Request for Review of Lunch Break Schedule

Dear [Manager's Name],

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing to discuss the current lunch break schedule in our department. Recently, I have noticed that my lunch breaks have been shortened or occasionally skipped due to workload demands. This has made it challenging to maintain my energy levels throughout the day.

According to our company's employee handbook, employees are entitled to a 30-minute lunch break during shifts longer than 8 hours. I want to ensure that I am adhering to company policies while also maintaining productivity.

Would it be possible to establish a more consistent lunch break schedule or explore options to better manage workload during break times? I believe this adjustment would benefit both my performance and overall well-being.

Thank you for your understanding and consideration. I am happy to discuss this further at your convenience.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
